The music in Aberdeen is the wonderful opportunity to learn, compose and perform with world-renowned composers, conductors, musicologists and researchers working in all genres, styles and periods. You will benefit from first-class facilities and instruments and unparalleled opportunities to grow as a musician and performer, be part of the vibrant music scene in northeastern Scotland and have options to specialize in teaching music or working with music in community environments. Aberdeen is the ideal environment and location to study music, with 500 years of musical history and heritage and a vibrant cultural identity, which celebrates the traditional while hugging the modern. When you enter our highly-known BMus program, you may already have specific career aspirations including editing, writing and performing music, composition and execution. If you are still considering your musical career however, our degrees are specifically designed to give you the time to explore and develop your interests with a broad foundation in music before choosing your specific program. You will study performance, composition and theory, musicality and a broad overview of the history of music that serves as the basis for future study and specialization in subsequent years. You may want to continue improving your skills as a musician and specialized in composition, performance and musicology, especially in your last year. Alternatively, you can specialize in teaching in the BMus (Education) program, or in the BMus (Music and Communities) opening opportunities to work in community education and music. Your studies will prepare you for a wide variety of careers, not only in music, but applying your skills in education, media and business and there are Aberdeen graduates working in music agencies and London management and Scottish orchestras. My teachers went up and beyond to help me in any way they could and I know they would still go today." Read more about Katie's story "If it wasn't for college I wouldn't have the confidence I have now to market myself as an actor. I am the product, so it is a different kind of trust that, I think, you need for yourself. The faculty was definitely the first step stone for me - to take on my own career, to take the lead, make my own decisions with the support and guidance of my tutors." Read more about Danielle's story "My time in college really helped me grow. He gave me the foundation to continue building skills and trust." Read more about the history of Tiana "I've already been Guitar Technician with Blossoms for about two and a half years. This, along with a few more networking, helped me get the job with Noel Gallagher's High Flying Birds, Frank Carter, Shed Seven, Two Door Cinema Club and even Gerry Cinnamon!" Read more about Bob's story "I really liked my time in NESCol. This really made me focus my sights on a career path on screen representation and I am confident that the skills I developed in college gave me a great start." Read more about Dany's story "I would encourage anyone who feels they have dismembered to apply for nescol. If you feel very mature for a school environment, but perhaps too young for the university, give yourself the additional education experience. "More about the History of Usan Mmus in Music Capitalizes on the Research Strength within the Department of Motheric and is intended for composers (vocals, instruments or electronics), artists, healthy artists, music, education, education The musical and practitioners of communion mother with a specific interest in a musical study area. Our MMUS students can project their study by selecting one or two concentrations of study of six paths: Community Mother, Composition, Musical Education, Musicology, Performance and Sonic Arts. Applicants must confirm in their application in which they want to specialize. In the center of the MMUS in Music is a wide project where the student can carry out a large -scale project with support and specialized personnel supervision. The means of the project will be determined by student interests and research and our program offers considerable flexibility in approach. This allows our students to build a significant portfance of work that will function as a trampoline for your future career, either in your chosen Strisher or at the gym. The MMUS in Music will serve the needs of graduates who may want to continue their studies in not the graduation, before employment or as a bridge for qualifications of higher graduation. The objective of the program is sometimes: - to provide a natural development of graduation programs, inside and outside the University of Aberdeen, for study of graded pits at the university in compositon E o, communion mother, musicology, musical education, performance or sound arts or any combination of these ways; - To help students develop and explore options in their future career in the gym or in the Strisher; - To continue to develop the research environment in the department of mother.
